THE GRAPEVINE

ST. JAMES PARISH • WILMINGTON, NC

WEEK OF AUGUST 2, 2020

THE REV. CHRIS HAMBY

PASCAL & ME

This year has been one for the ages. A year that will be written about in multiple books and generations will learn about 2020 as the year of Black Lives Matter becoming a phrase everyone knows about and the year of the pandemic. I would be lying if I were not already concerned, not only about how our fellow brothers and sisters in Christ are treated, an uptick in virus numbers, but also hurricane season. The staff at St. James has worked to prepare for hurricane season so we are ready to mitigate issues at the church but also ready to help our community. We never know what is coming our way in any given year, month, day, or hour during 2020. This feels like the longest year that never ends.

Recently I visited some family and, during the long drive, my wife and I were talking about how 2020 will impact not only our own children but those who are in various stages of life. We reflected on our own upbringing in school. I told her about math being my least favorite subject but, in an ironic twist, I took more math classes in High School than any other core subject as it was my desire to get ahead for college. Given reluctant love of math my teachers would be happy to know I still retain the knowledge imparted on me many years later. This leads to Pascal and me.

I have heard people say 2020 is Groundhog Day. Groundhog Day has become a cultural term for experiencing the same day ad infinitum. I would have agreed in mid-March, but now it feels like we are experiencing a never-ending Pascal's triangle. The top of the triangle is comprehensible and everything seems fine but each level gets larger and larger. The numbers eventually become so large you can no longer quickly predict the exact number below and each row takes more time to fill. This is 2020. We are living with Pascal and his triangle.

Each passing day, week, and month becomes harder to predict. The problems we face seem to exponentially grow and overwhelm and this is before any hurricane threats.

How do we not only keep our faith strong, help the less fortunate, pray, and love one another while at the same time letting go and remembering the ever-present love and grace of God while knowing "Jesus loves me." It is not easy to see when you're in month six of work-from-home order, planning children's education, figuring out how to see beautiful grand-children, making plans to meet with your monthly friend dinner group over zoom, wondering when you can safely enter a store and the clerk can actually see your smile, and just trying to remember what day-to-day life was before we entered this uncharted reality.

Look at Pascal's Triangle. You will notice a constant number on the outside of the triangle. The same number exists, no matter how big the numbers infinitely become in the middle, the outside will always be enveloped by the number one.

This is our reminder that God is with us throughout this journey. God will be constant in our life.

The pattern on the outside of Pascal's Triangle is the easiest to discern the next number below. What I remembered while driving from Lexington back to Wilmington with two kids and a dog crammed into a four-door sedan is our relationship to God is easy to see if we only look to understand that God is love and God will be with us every step along the way. When we look away from God, those big numbers in the middle become overwhelming, we get lost and we can no longer fathom the next row below, but returning to God we find comfort. I ask each of you to remember God's mercy is boundless, the love of Christ extends to all, and the grace we experience is forever life-changing when we keep God central in our lives.

SACRED GROUND

Tuesday, August 4, 2020 | 7:00 p.m. | Zoom

Join us as we discuss race and faith and our role at this moment in history. St. James Parish invites you to participate in Sacred Ground. Sacred Ground is a film-and reading-based dialogue series on race and faith. Participants will walk together through America's history of race and racism while weaving in the threads of family story, economic class, and political and regional identity. It's an invitation for small groups to gather to learn, share, and prepare to become Beloved Community. We hosted our first night of discussion via Zoom on Tuesday, July 28 at 7:00 pm. Even if you missed night one, come join us for night 2!

Built around a curriculum of powerful documentary films, videos, and readings, this 10-part series considers some of the major chapters of the United States of America's history of race and racism. It focuses on Indigenous, Black, Latino, and Asian American histories as they intersect with European American histories. Participants are invited to peel away the layers that have contributed to challenges and divides in the present day - all with a deep foundation in faith and love.

If you are interested in participating, please reach out to Rev. Cheryl Brainard at cheryl@stjamesp.org or Steve Thomas at stevethomas@live.com for access to the Zoom link. We are requesting RSVP so we can plan our breakout groups and know how many group leaders we will need.

PEOPLE COMPUTERS JESUS BIBLE STUDY

ST. JAMES RECTOR SEARCH FOCUS GROUP RESULTS AVAILABLE

The results are in! Please take a moment to review the compiled notes from our St. James Rector Search Committee. The Rector Search Committee conducted a series of focus groups over the course of two weeks beginning June 15th. Facilitated by members of the committee, these sessions, in which members of the parish were invited to respond to a list of prescribed questions, proved to be an invaluable source of insight and information. Here you will see a compilation of your fellow parishioners' responses to those questions, as well as other areas of interest and strong feeling/opinion that came forward in the sessions. The Rector Search Committee greatly appreciates the input of the congregation as we seek to discern who God is calling to be the next rector of St. James. If you have questions, please contact: search@stjamesp.org. Results may be found at: <https://www.stjamesp.org/blog/rector-search-focus-groups/>
